Session Synopsis

The number one pain point experienced by nearly every business today: the disconnect between the world of making decisions and the world of executing them. Today, 9 out of 10 organizations fail to implement their strategy.

Executives are all too often disconnected from the realities facing operational units, and are forced to make strategic decisions without a clear view of what is happening on the front line.

Organizations find it difficult to communicate goals to their employees, and to align their day-to-day activities with the overall strategy of the organization. This seminar will help organizations to understand how to fix this gap between strategy and execution, and optimize their business performance. Benefits of attending the seminar will include the following:

1. Understand the issues that companies face in implementing the business strategies
2. Learn about BI and BI tools
3. Relate to your own scenarios
